

Spend Thrift

Here's a bunch of thoughtfully designed stuff that you can acquire.

➤ Kathakali Tote Bag. Kathakali being one of the most vibrant dance forms has found its way on this tote bag as a part of the artwork series. It's the perfect accessory to suit a vibrant personality. Art by Aarohi

➤ Koi Fish Balti. With koi fish as an element of good luck, this is a Balti painted in blue. It also plays off the fact that the support surface is in fact a water bucket. This design is a continuation on the nazar/ good luck /warding of the evil eye series. Art by Aarohi

➤ Theyyam Cushion Cover. The cushion cover flaunts a digital print of a Theyyam painting. Printed on 100% cotton twill, finished with kantha hand stitching. Art by Aarohi

➤ Zebra Stripes Kettle. This kettle has this pattern but with a contemporary twist. The designer covered it with dots in response to a recent trip to Sydney and the aboriginal art that inspired her. Art by Aarohi

➤ Pattern Key Pouch. Aarohi Singh has created this multi-purpose pouch with abstract designs from her ever present doodle collection. It has two pockets on either side for credit card/ money and phone with a key ring attachment eyelet on the top. Art by Aarohi

➤ Koi Fish Thali. Part of the nazar/ good luck /warding of the evil eye series, this Thali is painted in hues of blue with koi fish symbolising good luck. Art by Aarohi

Art by Aarohi.

Art By Aarohi as a brand reflects the design and aesthetic sensibilities of artist and designer Aarohi Singh. It covers artwork across supports, surfaces and genres. It aims at drawing connections with the creator, observer and the artwork itself.

www.artbyaarohi.com

Chungi.

Chungi is the brainwave of Shweta Tiwary. She is an ex-advertising professional who has now started Chungi. With an aim to bring the market to these talented artists in small towns, she also brings such exquisite pieces of craft to people in the cities.

www.facebook.com/shweta.tiwary.16